It is possible to invest in this underlying Fund only through the purchase of a State Farm Variable Deferred Annuity or Variable Universal Life Insurance policy. There is no assurance that the Fund will achieve its investment objective. An investment should be made with an understanding of the risks that an investment in equity securities entails. These include the risk that the financial condition of the issuers of the securities in the portfolio, or the condition of the stock market in general, may decline. Fund units, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. This Fund seeks to match the performance of an index. There is no guarantee that it will be able to do so. The Fund intends to remain fully invested at all times. Even when stock prices are falling, the Fund will stay fully invested and the Fund may decline more than the S&P® 500 Index. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.
